

JANET LAWLER – AUTHOR PROFILE

Janet Lawler's love of nature has been the inspiration for much of her writing. She was born and raised in Milford, Connecticut, where she and her older sister cared for chickens, dogs, rabbits, ducks, and a large garden. During bountiful summers they sold their vegetables at a roadside stand. An avid reader, Janet often rode her bike two miles to the library to check out several books at a time.

Janet attended high school, college and graduate school in Connecticut. She practiced law for several years before her second career as a children's author.

Her mother's love poem, IF KISSES WERE COLORS, is in its 5th printing and has been translated into Spanish, Japanese, Korean, and Hebrew. A FATHER'S SONG captures active, fun-filled moments shared between a dad and child. In A MAMA BUG'S LOVE, mother bugs jump off the pages to show their affection. TYRANNOCLAUS escapes an erupting volcano to visit dinosaur boys and girls. A mother and child enjoy nature throughout the seasons in A MOTHER'S SONG.

Janet enjoys school and library visits and has presented at industry events. She served as a panel judge for Reading Rainbow's 13th Annual Young Writers & Illustrators contest.

Janet writes and revises in many locations – at her daughter's sport practices, at the computer, in the backyard, in the shower, and as she is falling asleep at night. She reads manuscripts and drafts out loud to anyone who will listen – her husband, her son, her daughter, her weekly writers' group, good friends, her parents, and even her dog. In her spare time, Janet loves to read, rollerblade, garden, ski, and play tennis. Her critically acclaimed work includes:
